2019

SLO Film Fest is turning 25!

The San Luis Obispo International Film Festival was founded in 1993 as a celebration of classic films. Film director George Sidney was the recipient of the first King Vidor Award that year, beginning the annual tradition of presenting a successful film industry professional with the award on the stage of the beautiful Fremont Theatre in downtown San Luis Obispo.

The Festival grew to include the George Sidney Independent Film Competition, helping to promote independent filmmaking and up-and-coming talent. Behind-the-scenes seminars were added, attracting a wide variety of filmmaking pros from nearby Hollywood and all over the country.

The SLO Film Fest continues to grow and thrive as an oasis for independent filmmakers to screen their films and have face-to-face contact with enthusiastic audiences. Several traditions like Surf Nite in SLO, the Central Coast Filmmakers Showcase, a Youth Filmmaking Program and the Festival VIP Tent add a unique flavor to this annual event that just keeps getting better every year.

Festival Marketing & Media Exposure

The SLO Film Fest is a “can’t miss” event thanks to the generous media coverage we receive, through partnerships with KSBY-TV, Tribune, New Times, Santa Maria Sun, Univision, American General Media and more. The Festival has been featured in national media: CBS News, Los Angeles Times, ABC News, Hollywood Reporter, Variety, Indiewire, National Public Radio, Surfer Magazine, BBC Radio News, Huffington Post, MovieMaker Magazine, Wine Specator, and many more.

Media sponsors provide significant advance coverage of the festival in the form of print advertising, on-air promotion, and social media. Video and photo coverage is shared online through YouTube and social marketing so the promotion is long-lasting.

...Where Movies Matter!

“San Luis Obispo’s festival is modest in size but its audience is loyal and enthusiastic and that’s all one really needs for a successful event of this kind. It also takes place in a beautiful spot on California’s Central Coast and that doesn’t hurt a bit. Festival founder Mary Harris also surprised me with an award, and a beautiful speech...it was a special moment for me, and greatly appreciated.”

Leonard Maltin, Film Critic Exerpt from blog post Noir City and Beyond

“Thank you! We had the best time! Any way I can help grow this in our community just let me know. I’d like to be more involved and turn it into a top destination.” Josh Brolin

“Wendy Eidson and her SLO International Film Festival team have given us an amazing week of film appreciation and parties! Big cheers! We are so proud to support this each year!” Suzanne Schonig, AGM

A big congratulations on the great success of the Film Festival!! How wonderful to see the numbers that prove that San Luis Obispo is THE PLACE to be! Yay!

Erin McCall, Community Foundation San Luis Obispo County

“It was so refreshing to be around people who genuinely enjoy either watching or making films, or both. The hotel was as good as it gets, right on the beach in Pismo and the goodie bag was quite a treat. Everything you guys did down to the smallest detail was just so well done and thoughtful.” Mark Gunson, *Great Highway

“While it still manages to feel like a small-town affair, from its programming and special events to its attending celebrities, it delivers the goods for which large, urban festivals are known...it’s one of the best film events in the country.”

Timothy Rhys, Publisher
MOVIEMAKER MAGAZINE

“As a first-time attendee at your festival from Orange County, I wanted to offer some well-deserved KUDOS! We go to film festivals all over the US, and you do so many things RIGHT that I just had to tell you about them. SLO is now on our list of a festival we will definitely attend.”
